

Maher A. Nabulsi is an Associate Professor of Computer Science at Al-Zaytoonah University of Jordan. He got his Phd in automatic control and computer engineering. He participated in many conferences and published in many journals. His research interests include computer architecture, logic design, discrete structures, microprogramming, automatic control and robotics.

