The National Erasmus+ Office (NEO) In Jordan conducted a face to face monitoring visit on January the 4th, 2021, for the Erasmus+ Project " HANDS". The monitoring visit was comprehensive and involved various stakeholders.

Attendance and Introduction: Representatives from the project partners in Jordan, including Al-Zaytoonah University of Jordan, Jordan University of Science and Technology, the University of Jordan, Hashemite University, and Karmeh Design Studio, attended the monitoring visit. The NEO representatives introduced the purpose and objectives of the monitoring visit, ensuring everyone was aware of the goals for the session.

Project Status Presentations: Each Jordanian project partner provided presentations on the current status and progress of their involvement in the "HANDS" project. These presentations covered various aspects such as project milestones achieved, challenges faced, lessons learned, and future plans.

Open Discussion: Following the presentations, an open discussion took place involving faculty members from the partner universities. This discussion may have focused on addressing concerns, sharing best practices, and exchanging ideas for further project enhancement.

Exhibition Tour: As part of the monitoring visit, a tour was conducted to view an exhibition showcasing students' work from the implemented courses within the "HANDS" project. This tour provided an opportunity to observe the practical outcomes of the project and assess the impact of the courses on student learning and development.

Project partners also had the chance to provide their feedback on the monitoring visit and express concerns and suggestions for enhancing future project activities.

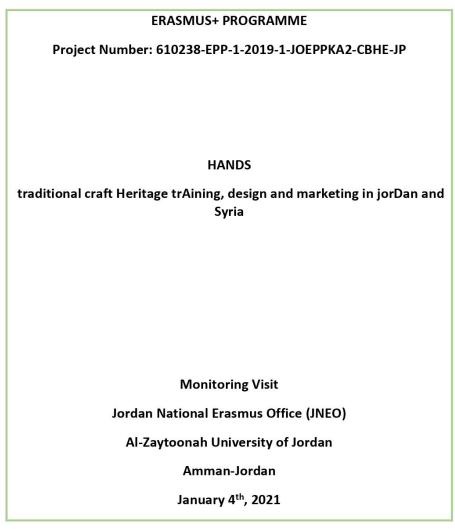

Overall, the monitoring visit served as an important opportunity to assess the implementation of the "HANDS" project, gather feedback from stakeholders, and ensure alignment with project objectives and Erasmus+ guidelines. At the end of the Meeting; a constructive feedback on the project was delivered from the NEO Office.
