EVENT DESCRIPTION

Event: HANDS Vocational Workshop / Fashion Design / Traditional Fashion Design: Leather Bag Design and manufacture

Date: Sunday to Thursday, 3-7/9/2023

Organizer: Al-Zaytoonah University of Jordan

Location: Faculty of Architecture and Design

The one-week vocational workshop organized by the HANDS project at ZUJ, supported by stakeholder Miss. Nancy Najeeb, was a highly comprehensive and engaging session for students. The workshop aimed at providing practical application experiences in designing and manufacturing leather bags, fostering creativity and skill development among the participants.

The objectives outlined for the workshop were well-structured:

Introduction to Leather Material: Educating students about the properties, uses, and techniques related to working with leather is foundational knowledge. Understanding the material is crucial in crafting leather products effectively.

Hands-on Activities: Engaging students in practical applications is an effective way to reinforce learning. Designing and manufacturing a leather bag provided a tangible and hands-on experience, allowing participants to apply their knowledge directly.

Innovation in Design Applications: Encouraging creativity and innovation in traditional bag designs is essential in fostering artistic expression. This objective likely stimulated participants to think outside conventional boundaries, resulting in unique and creative bag designs.

The involvement of stakeholders, particularly Miss. Nancy Najeeb, would have provided valuable insights and guidance to the students, potentially offering a real-world perspective and expertise in the field of craftwork and design.

The workshop's success can be gauged from the active participation of students and their ability to create and execute various bag designs. The fact that the products of students' work were displayed in fashion department exhibitions is a testament to the workshop's success and the quality of the designs produced.
