Knowing and determining the sold thing in the Jordanian civil law

In order to form a sale contract, the object must be defined and determined beyond serious lack of recognition. It must be as well as known by the purchaser, as an object of the sale contract. As a matter of fact, the sold thing is either a fungables or things of value, therefore, there is a way of ascertaining and determining to each kind of the sold thing.

It seems to us through this study, that the condition which has been set up by the Jordanian Civil Code in Article (466 and 467) for ascertaining and knowing the sold thing is not a repeat to what has been provided for in Article (161), but it is sort of completion between the two principles mentioned above.

In addition to that, the Civil Code of Jordan has mixed some conception, which need to be cleared.

Key words: the sold thing. Determining of the sold thing. Thing of value. Fungable thing. Sale in bulk.
