

ABSTRACT

Following governance for the common good into multiple management methods called business management, It is either a legal act or a material act, and in both ways the administration must follow the principle of legality, All its activities must be carried out within the limits specified by law, If and when the Department carries out its work, it causes damage to both individuals and bodies, The injured person is entitled to claim compensation, Responsibility for management is based on fault, damage and causation between them. However, as administrative activities have evolved, the potential risk to individuals from such actions has increased. It was necessary to find another type of compensation. Compensation for those affected by risks The work of the Department, even without fault on the part of the Department, compensation is compensation for work Legitimate in the interests of justice, constitutional principles and public interest