Abstract

The study aimed to reveal the ways to prove the recognition contained in the conditional statement before the court, where the inference stage is the first step to collect evidence and information related to the circumstances of the crime and its perpetrators, but it lacks the legal guarantees provided for the defendant, and this was confirmed by the legislator when he restricted the Public Prosecution to providing evidence of the validity of the circumstances that The non-judicial recognition was taken as a legal evidence on which the court relies in building its judgment. For this reason, this study came to aim to show the means of proof that the Public Prosecution Office can present to the court on the validity of the circumstances in which the confession was taken. Presenting evidence from the Public Prosecution on the validity of the procedures that take place in the inference stage, and the most important recommendations to provide guarantees for the defendant at that stage by clarifying and presenting several evidence to the Public Prosecution to present them on the circumstances in which the confession was taken.
